Estimado cliente:

Stryker Neurovascular ha emitido una Nota de Seguridad de productos sanitarios a los clientes para alertarles de la posibilidad de que los accesorios introductores opcionales incluidos con las guías Synchro dañen el revestimiento de la guía. Este daño puede aumentar el riesgo de que se introduzcan partículas del revestimiento en la vasculatura del paciente. Nuestros registros indican que se le han suministrado algunos de los productos en cuestión. Por tanto, le rogamos que lea con detenimiento este aviso y lleve a cabo las acciones que se le solicitan.

Descripción del producto

Las guías Synchro son una gama de guías dirigibles con punta moldeable. Las guías son compatibles con microcatéteres existentes utilizados en procedimientos habituales, como los usados para el diagnóstico endovascular y el tratamiento de enfermedades neurovasculares. La serie de guías Synchro, Synchro2 y Synchro SELECT se ha diseñado para un uso intravascular general, por ejemplo, en la vasculatura neurovascular y la periférica. Para favorecer la lubricidad, la parte distal de los productos está recubierta con un polímero hidrófilo y la parte proximal de las guías está recubierta con politetrafluoroetileno (PTFE).

Los introductores incluidos con las guías están diseñados para facilitar la inserción de la guía en el conector del catéter o la válvula hemostática.

Problema del producto

Stryker Neurovascular ha detectado un aumento de la frecuencia de daños en el revestimiento de PTFE de las guías Synchro que podría deberse a la práctica de retrocargar la guía a través del accesorio introductor opcional. Este problema se limita a ciertos lotes de guías Synchro (indicados en la sección anterior "Productos afectados") que contienen una versión anterior del accesorio introductor. Debido a una variación en el proceso de fabricación del proveedor del accesorio introductor, algunos introductores tienen bordes más afilados de lo previsto que pueden desprender el revestimiento de PTFE cuando los médicos utilizan una técnica conocida como "retrocarga". Mediante este documento, se advierte a los usuarios con productos afectados en su inventario que no utilicen esta técnica de retrocarga. (Consulte el Apéndice A para obtener más información sobre la técnica de retrocarga).

Stryker Neurovascular ha mejorado el accesorio introductor opcional que se incluye con las guías Synchro. La mejora se realizó para reducir la probabilidad de que el introductor dañase el revestimiento de PTFE de la guía. Esta comunicación está dirigida a los usuarios que tienen en su inventario productos que se fabricaron antes de esta mejora, como se indica en la sección anterior "Productos afectados".

Posibles riesgos

Los daños asociados a la introducción de partículas en el torrente sanguíneo de los pacientes pueden incluir, entre otros, necrosis tisular posprocedimiento, accidente isquémico transitorio, accidente cerebrovascular o la muerte. La embolia por PTFE también puede provocar inflamación crónica. Hasta la fecha, no se han notificado lesiones en pacientes.

Acciones necesarias

Tenga en cuenta que NO es necesario devolver ningún producto; no obstante, si desea sustituir los productos, póngase en contacto con su representante de Stryker Neurovascular.

RA2024-3612746 Apéndice ARetrocarga e identificación de daños en el revestimiento de PTFE

1. El paquete de las guías Synchro contiene un dispositivo de torsión y un accesorio introductor opcional. Para favorecer la lubricidad, la parte distal de la guía está recubierta con un polímero hidrófilo y la parte proximal, con politetrafluoroetileno (PTFE).
2. La retrocarga se refiere a la práctica de cargar la guía desde el extremo distal del accesorio introductor en lugar de hacerlo a través del conector en el extremo proximal de la herramienta. Consulte la Figura 1.

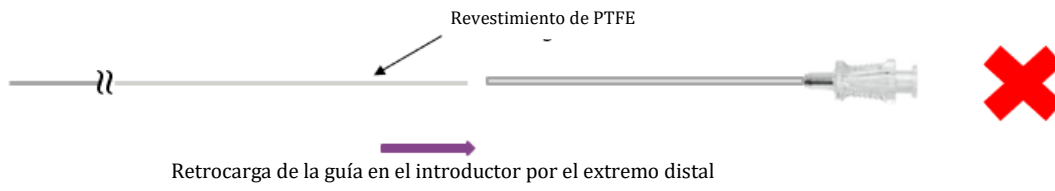

Figura 1: Técnica de retrocarga incorrecta

3. El accesorio introductor opcional suministrado con las guías Synchro puede tener bordes afilados. Estos bordes afilados pueden provocar que el revestimiento de PTFE se desprenda si los usuarios retrocargan la guía en el introductor. Consulte la Figura 2. El revestimiento de PTFE es de color, por lo que, cuando se producen daños, el revestimiento desprendido es visible a simple vista. Consulte la Figura 3.

Figura 2: Pelado del revestimiento de PTFE durante la retrocarga

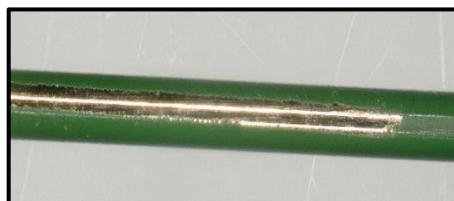

Figura 3: Daños en el revestimiento de PTFE de la guía Synchro

4. Se advierte a los usuarios que NO retrocarguen la guía y que carguen el extremo distal de la guía en el conector del accesorio introductor. Consulte la Figura 4.

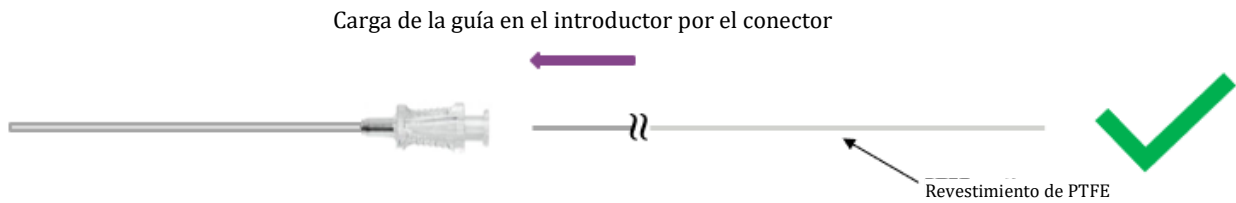

Figura 4: Técnica de carga adecuada de la guía con el introductor

5. Si se observan daños en el revestimiento de PTFE, siga las precauciones de las instrucciones de uso y no utilice la guía dañada. Póngase en contacto con su representante de Stryker Neurovascular para obtener un producto de sustitución.
